Hostile Republicans.

The Idaho Statesman, which is a Republican paper and exhibits considerable ability, does not seem to be in harmony with the Liberal Republican organ in this city. The latest rejoinder of the Statesman to the attacks of its adversary is so brief and to the point that we reproduce it here entire:

Some time since, the Statesman called attention to the fact that the Salt Lake Tribune, by opposing the admission of Utah as a state, was doing an injury to the cause of silver. A late issue of that paper contains a dispatch from its Washington correspondent stating that the opposition to the admission of any more western states is based primarily upon a determination of the eastern enemies of silver not to permit the white metal to secure any more votes in the Senate. It seems that the gold bugs are strong enough to carry their point. The Tribune may be able to derive some comfort from knowledge of the fact that it has played into their hands and that whatever influence it has been able to bring to bear against admission has been directly against the interests of silver.

Resumption of Work.

Montana papers announce the resumption of work at the Anaconda mines on the fifth day of March. The company had to shut down about two months ago in order to make repairs in the mines. The shafts had to be sunk deeper and timbered, and the machinery overhauled. The properties of the company at Butte and Anaconda are now in excellent order and work has been sent to employees of the company who are away to return immediately.

This is good news to hundreds of workmen, their families and the business men at both places. It means the disbursement of large sums of money in wages and its consequent circulation in the community. As soon as work in the mines is commenced the smelters will be started up and be in full blast. Contracts have been made to furnish large quantities of copper, and to fill them the full capacity of the works will be employed continuously.

This is of more importance to Montana than even the election of a United States Senator. It means prosperity to hosts of people and therefore strength to the state. If money was put into such enterprises instead of being squandered for the gratification of personal ambition or the indulgence of spite against political adversaries, it would bring solid satisfaction to the capitalist and much more benefit to the public.

We hope to be able soon to announce that some of Utah's industries, that have been suspended, have started up again. The territory cannot afford to have them sleep. We need more of them to employ our idle hands and revive the trade that is languishing. Let the workmen and their employers come together and pull for mutual interest, and there will be much greater profit and satisfaction all around.

Worrying About Gresham.

Why do Republican papers take so much trouble over the Democracy of Judge GRESHAM? If he is more of a Republican than a Democrat should that give them great concern? One would think that if they believe what they say they would rejoice over the fact. But they appear to be terribly troubled in mind and want to know "who vouches for his Democracy."

One paper brings forward the circumstance of the presentation of GRESHAM's name at the Republican national convention at Chicago in 1888, when those who suggested his name stated that he "possessed in his own great character all the good qualities of the Republican party," and that he was "sound on the tariff and upon all the questions of the day."

Well, what of that? If GRESHAM possesses all those good qualities, did not CLEVELAND show good sound sense in selecting him for Secretary of State? If added to "all the good qualities of the Republican party," he also has the good qualities of the Democratic party, which he supported at the last election, does not that prove his fitness for the post he is called to occupy?

"Sound on the tariff?" Yes, but not in the way Republican papers would like to have. He was in '88, as well as in '92 an advocate of tariff reform, and it has been proven by the testimony of those who approached him that he was not in accord with the Republican ideas at either time. He was truly "sound on the tariff," but he was and is against the extravagant notions which found expression in McKinleyism.

THE HERALD has already explained Judge GRESHAM's position on the state rights question. The present attempt to link him to the high tariff heresy is on a par with the effort to misrepresent him as a state rights man. It will not work. And why need Republicans worry themselves about it, anyhow. If the Democrats are satisfied with GRESHAM the Republicans ought to be if what they allege is true, and if it isn't, they only make themselves ludicrous.

World's Fair on Sunday.

The advocates of the retention intact of the bill which provided for the closing of the World's Fair on Sundays desire to convey the idea that such a movement is demanded by the religious sentiment of the country. They claim that to open the exhibition on that day would shock the feelings of the best people and do great harm to the Fair and to the public.

As an offset to that idea, the fact is being made public that the champions of the Sunday closing movement do not include in their number a great many prominent clergymen, but are reinforced by the owners of the saloons and gambling dens in Chicago. They see that if the great tide of humanity that will set in while the Exposition is on should be able to flow into the Fair on Sunday, it would be diverted from their places of resort and would result in loss to their coffers. It is well known that the closing of saloons on Sunday in Chicago is chiefly in appearance and there can be no doubt that if visitors could not attend the Fair, many of them would go to the saloons in spite of Sunday ordinances and regulations.

Bishop PORTER is among the religious leaders who think that the opening of the Fair on Sunday would not diminish attendance at the churches, while it would help to preserve public order on that day and instead of injuring the cause of morality. The Sunday closing appears to be demanded more by zealots of the Col. SHEPARD order, who think more of the form than of the spirit of Sabbath observance than by the really religious people of the land.

No one who desires the welfare of the country wants to see Sunday secularized, but the most sensible people in and out of the churches wish that the liberties of all should be preserved, and that fanatical people shall not have power to force their views and observances upon others who do not see with their eyes. To look upon works of art and admire the beauties of nature is, it is held, incompatible with true religious belief and worship, and is far to be preferred to wasting time on frivolity or spending it in beer gardens and places of revelry. There are two sides to this question, and both should be carefully considered.

The Idaho Electoral Oath.

In another column we publish the text of the Idaho electoral oath as it now stands. It is simply the old test oath reworded, as it was before Idaho became a state, and tacked on to it some retroactive provisions which were particularly objectionable; these are now expunged. But the oath as it is seems sufficiently stringent to suit anti-polygamists in or out of the state.

The new law provides further that if any applicant for registration refuses to answer all questions, give all information under his control, take all oaths and do all other acts and things required of him by law, his application must be rejected by the registrar. When desired by the applicant, or challenger or the registrar, the examination must be reduced to writing, but the examination of one applicant shall not exceed one-half hour without the consent of the registrar.

The name, date of registry, age, place of nativity and of residence of every elector, must be recorded by the registrar and full particulars also of all persons who are refused registration, with the reasons for such refusal. Check lists, the electors register, and the register containing the names of those refused registration, must be furnished to the judges of election on the day next preceding an election.

It will be observed that the oath is special in its anti-polygamic provisions. The citizen is not required to swear that he is not living in violation of any law of the State or of the United States except such as forbid the practice named in the act. We are not criticising the law, but merely pointing out its provisions, that the people of Idaho whom it is intended particularly to benefit may not be misled as to the rights and privileges which it confers or those it withholds. Since the publication and adoption of the manifesto, the people of Southern Idaho, as a rule, have been in a position which would have enabled them to take the electors' oath if it had been in its present form. They can now register and vote and exercise all the rights of citizens the same as other residents of the State. If any are living in violation of the laws named they of course are not enfranchised.

It was the desire of some members of the legislature to entirely expunge the test oath as no longer necessary, and as a reference in the laws to conditions that had changed and a conflict that was past. But the provisions of the state constitution are such that it was considered requisite for the election laws to be so framed that these provisions might be something more than a dead letter.

The political situation in Idaho is so much improved by the modifications that have been made in the election laws, that we congratulate the people who are restored to their right of franchise and hope they will show their esteem for it by a wise exercise of its powers. They have become divided on political questions. That is because they have been led by hard experiences to study political principles. They should now bury the past, and in all their political acts be guided by principle instead of by feeling. We have no fears for the result.

The Idaho Test Oath.

As it stands in the new election law passed by the present session of the legislature.

Following is text of the oath that must be taken before registration by every person who wishes to vote in Idaho, as it was recently passed by the legislature and signed by the governor:

"ELECTOR'S OATH."

I do swear, or affirm, that I am a male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years, or will be — day of A. D. 18 — (naming date next succeeding election); that I have (or will have) actually resided in this state for six months and in this county for thirty days next preceding the next ensuing election (in case of any election requiring a different time of residence, so make it); that I have never been convicted of treason, felony, embezzlement of public funds, bartering or selling or offering to barter or sell my vote, or purchasing or offering to purchase the vote of another, or other infamous crime, without thereafter being restored to the rights of citizenship.

That I am not a bigamist or polygamist, nor am I living in what is known as a patriarchal, plural or celestial marriage, or in violation of any law of this state, or of the United States, forbidding any such crime, nor do I, in any manner teach, advise, counsel, aid or encourage any person to enter into bigamy, polygamy or such patriarchal, plural or celestial marriage, or to live in violation of any such law, or to commit any such crime, nor am I a member of, nor do I contribute to the support, aid or encouragement of any order, organization, association, corporation or society which teaches, advises, counsels, encourages or aids any person to enter into bigamy, polygamy or such patriarchal, plural marriage, or which teaches or advises that the law of this state prescribing rules of civil conduct are not the supreme of this state.

That I will not commit any act in violation of the provisions in this oath contained; that I am not now registered or entitled to vote at any other place in this state; that I do regard the Constitution of the United States and the laws thereof, and the constitution of this state and the laws thereof, as interpreted by the courts as the supreme law of the land, the teachings of any order, organization or association to the contrary, notwithstanding (when made before a judge of election, add: "And I have not previously voted at this election, so help me God.")

Subscribed and sworn to before me this — day of — A. D. 18 — Registrar of — Precinct, — County, Idaho.

SECRETARY JERRY RUSK says that the prospect of large returns from judicious hog feeding has never been so bright as now. This year five pounds of hog bring as much as a bushel of corn, and a bushel of corn makes ten pounds of pork. According to this, hogs would make corn bring 50 cents a bushel, which, as the secretary says, is about twice as much as present Chicago quotations. At this rate we shall soon be reckoning swine before pearls.

This is the birthday of President WILFORD WOODRUFF and THE HERALD extends cordial congratulations to the aged veteran, who bears his 85 years with so much vigor and dignity. He is one of Utah's pioneers and of nature's noblemen for he is recognized by all classes of people who know him as an honest man who is sincere in his beliefs and straightforward in his ways. We hope he will yet live many years in health and prosperity.

THE MAINTENANCE of the Democratic societies of the different states is a duty to which the national association of Democratic clubs may well call attention. The Congressional elections of next year are second in importance only to the general election next fall. Indifference, or too much confidence, may result in what may be called a reversal of the popular verdict of 1892. The organization of the party must not be permitted to lag.

SENATOR PEPPER, who entered the United States Senate as a howling opponent of everything that ever had been in practice, seems to be trotting along now just like other legislators. His daughter is his private secretary, to whom Uncle Sam pays $5 a day, and his son draws the same amount for alleged services, his nephew also enjoying a job at the same price.

OUR DISPATCHES this morning give the assurance that the Copper Smelter is a fixed fact for Salt Lake. Satisfactory freight arrangements have been agreed upon, and other preliminaries arranged. Let us hope that nothing will now stand in the way of the early commencement of the work of building.

MR. HARRISON is not the only precedent for Mr. CLEVELAND of a President taking a law partner into his Cabinet. President FILLMORE, who, like CLEVELAND, was a Buffalonian, had for his postmaster-general his former partner at the bar.

CONGRESSMAN BAKER, having started a movement to reduce the President's salary to $25,000 a year, it is understood that General WEAVER regards his action as a personal affront.

EVERYBODY WILL be looking out today to see whether March comes in like a lion or like a lamb. THE HERALD's prediction department has suffered severe strains lately.

It is quite apparent that selfish interests are the predominant motive in the Montana Senatorial election. Strange that the Democratic members should consent to be the tools of this, that or the other candidate.

OUR WASHINGTON correspondent says of the members of the Utah Commission that they "are unable to say where they stand." That is what has been the matter with them for the last many days.

A WICHITA, KANSAS, girl, abducted by cyclops four years ago, is on her way home. Here is meat for a novel.

IN THE process known as "draw," Judge GRESHAM, it is said, plays a stiff hand.

JUBAL EARLY, one of the survivors of the recent unpleasantness, still wears the gray.

Might Have Waived.

[From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.] The country will be glad to learn that one of Mr. Harrison's last official acts has been the appointment of a judge of probate at Sanpete. If the people of Sanpete had been required to wait until the 4th of March for a new judge of probate, various large estates might have been imperiled, and the Republican party in the vicinity of Sanpete would have been disrupted. There is no denying it, Benjamin Harrison has always been on hand when an appointment was to be made.

One Thousand Dollars in Prizes. THE HERALD, on behalf of the McClure Literary Associated Press, offers one thousand dollars in prizes for five short stories from 3,000 to 6,000 words in length, and suitable for publication in our columns, as follows:

For the best short story, $500.
 For the second best, $200.
 For the third best, $100.
 For the fourth best, $50.
 For the fifth best, $50.
 Any competitor can limit his offering to compete for only the first prize or for only the first two prizes.

Complete information will be furnished by the editor of this paper on receipt of a 2-cent stamp.

the best is the cheapest. Strictly Pure White Lead is best; properly applied it will not scale, chip, crack, or rub off; it firmly adheres to the wood and forms a permanent base for repainting. Paints which peel or scale have to be removed by scraping or burning before satisfactory repainting can be done. When buying it is important to obtain properly made. Time has proven that white lead made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion possesses qualities that cannot be obtained by any other method of manufacture. This process consumes four to six months time, and produces the brand that has given White Lead its character as the standard paint.

"Southern" is the standard brand of strictly pure Lead made by the "Old Dutch" process. You get the best in buying it. You can produce any desired color by tinting this brand of white lead with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

For sale by the most reliable dealers in Paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

awaits purchasers of our suits. It's enough to excite surprise, astonishment and wonder to see such admirable clothing going at such prices as we are now offering. There are some inducements which it is folly not to accept and that's the kind we are holding out now. These inducements won't hold out long though, because the stock has wings so to speak, and is flying away in all directions.
